Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street, ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.
I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite. I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I had fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

A STORY OF WEBSTER.

Daniel's Love For Brandy and a Very Indignant Client.

Mr. Webster's fondness for brandy gave one of his important clients a very bad twenty-four hours. He was called to Philadelphia to defend the Goodyear rubber patents, and the head of the firm met him at the station. When they had entered the carriage he at once turned to Mr. Webster and referred to one feature of the evidence to be presented in the trial the following day.

"I speak of it, Mr. Webster," he said, "as it has a peculiarly important bearing on the case, and I thought you might not have understood its significance."

Mr. Webster, who was looking dreamily out of the carriage window, was recalled to a consciousness of his client's presence. He yawned and, settling back against the cushions, remarked:

"I've always hoped I might some day come to Philadelphia, because I've been told that there is no place in the United States where they serve finer brandy. When I came away from Boston I said to some of my friends, 'Boys, I'm going to find out about that Philadelphia brandy, and if I find that it really is the best I shall have made a useful trip.'"

Several times Mr. Goodyear tried to draw his distinguished attorney's attention to the particular point at issue, but he never seemed to take the slightest interest in it. The brandy of Philadelphia was apparently the only topic which interested him, and he always resorted to it.

Mr. Goodyear left him somewhat brusquely at his hotel. When he returned to his office his story was anything but inspiring. "We've got a man who is supposed to be the greatest lawyer in the United States, and the only subject in which he takes any interest is Philadelphia brandy."

That night, though, Mr. Webster worked in his room until 2 o'clock, occasionally walking the floor and marshaling his case into battle array. His plan the next day was one of his most impressive utterances in his power and logic, and the case, involving hundreds of thousands of dollars, was given to the Goodyears.

Single Disclosures.

At best it is only in the exercise of a great unselfishness that the elderly spinster can continue to enjoy the sunshine of happiness. So long as people are young there need not be much loneliness in the single state of either a man or a woman. The sweets of liberty and the unconscious hope of happiness to come make up for much that is lost in the present. It is when life begins to grow gray, when old friends, through death, through marriage or through exigencies of time and place have fallen away and new friends are more difficult to make—it is then that both the spinster and the bachelor will feel the inexorable ache of loneliness. And the outlook then is worse for the spinster than for the bachelor because it is more inexorable. A man, if he has the means to support a wife and often if he has not, can always turn to matrimony as a possible consolation when he chooses, and he knows that—Woman's Life.

What One Small Boy Asked.

Children's questions are sometimes even more embarrassing than their answers, says John Henry Burn in "Children's Answers." The following were asked by a small boy during a two minutes' conversation:

1. Do kittens take off their fur when they go to bed at night?
2. Who cooked dinner when all the big people were little boys?
3. Why don't oysters have tails?
4. What kind of medicine is it the chemist has in the big green bottles in the front window?
5. What does Santa Claus give little boys skates for when there ain't any ice?
6. When I drink water, why don't it run down into my legs?

The Inlook.

"Uncle Rastus, you are preaching for a new congregation now, aren't you?"

"Yes, suh."

"What are your prospects? How do you like the outlook?"

"Well, suh, de outlook ain't so bad, but de first look I took at de bad afah it had gone round 'mongst de congregation folk collections was vey disapp'intin'."—Chicago Tribune.

A Cold Reception.

A pompous English duke who had married his third wife was one day surprised as he entered the drawing room dressed for some state ceremonial by his wife throwing her arms about his neck and kissing him. "Madam," said he in the childlike tones, "my first wife was a Howard, my second wife was a Pembroke, and, madam, neither of them ever dared to attempt such a liberty."

MADAME'S SHAMPOO.

She Wanted a Full Course of Treatment, and She Got It.

An American lady went into a French hairdresser's establishment in Berlin to get a shampoo. The proprietor was a tall, thin man, with all the grace and suavity of a dancing master. He came forward in haste as the door opened.

"Ah, madame weeches a treatment for ze scalp. Oui, yes," said he, bowing low, with a wide sweep of the hand.

"Yes, and I have my own notions about how it should be done," replied the lady, glancing doubtfully about the room, as if she was putting herself into the hands of irresponsible strangers. "Where do you keep your preparations, sir?"

"Ah, ze ingredients? They are here, madame," said the artist, leading the way to a marble slab affixed to the wall at the back of the room, upon which there stood a long line of bottles and jars.

The lady recognized many of the preparations and thus regained much of her assurance.

"Is madame ready?" asked the proprietor.

"No; wait, if you please. First, I want some of that," she said, pointing to a bottle.

The hairdresser nodded. "It ees my pleasure, madame."

"And then you may rub in some of that," she pointed to a jar of a familiar lotion.

"Oui, zat will be excellent, madame."

"Then a good rubbing with that," she went on, indicating an open bowl which contained a thin brown liquid.

"Mais, non!" cried the other. "Madame does not weech it!"

"Yes, I do!" replied the lady sharply.

"But, madame!"

"Do as I say, if you please," she interrupted in a vexed tone.

The proprietor shrugged his shoulders, but he did as he was bid. Everything went well except that the brown liquid did not smell just as she had expected and produced a curious sensation of warmth as it was applied.

"Wasn't that brown liquid a shampoo mixture?" she asked, with growing doubt as he finished.

"Non, madame," he replied politely. "I put it on because madame insects. But, you see, I was eating when madame came. Ze bowl contained my soup, madame!"—Lippincott's.

A Misapplied Word.

Everybody who has had experience in carving knows that not only are sharper knives required, but also probably more skill and practice, to carve a duck than any other fowl. Admiral Dewey was a guest at a dinner table where his host had that serious task to perform. As the admiral watched the almost desperate endeavors of the carver to disintegrate the bird he smiled mildly. His host happened to notice it and felt a bit piqued, as he was not in the best of temper anyway.

"You appear to be amused at my awkwardness, admiral," said he.

"Not at all, sir; not at all," was the reply. "I was only thinking why the term duck was used as a word of endearment and goose one of reproach."

Scarcely What He Meant.

Landseer, says a biographer, was exceedingly fond of telling the following story of his meeting with the king of Portugal and the latter's unexpected greeting:

At one of the court balls Landseer attended, when the king of Portugal, who was also a guest, was made aware of the presence of the great animal painter he expressed his desire for an introduction. Landseer was presented accordingly, when the king in his imperfect English said:

"Oh, Mr. Landseer, I am delighted to make your acquaintance! I am so fond of beasts!"

Tolstoi's Lesson.

Count Tolstoi was so plain as a boy that his mother said to him: "You know, Nikolinka, that no one will love you for your face, and therefore you must endeavor to be a good and sensible boy."

Tolstoi said when he was an old man that all through his life these words had helped to keep him true to what is most worth while in human character.

"I knew when my mother spoke them," he said, "that I should without fail become a sensible boy."

Sarcastic.

A Frenchwoman was complaining to her husband that he was too much of a bookworm; that he retired too often to his study, leaving her to spend many evenings alone. "I wish," she ended plaintively, "that I were a book. Then I might always have your company."

"In that case, my dear," the Frenchman answered, "I'd wish you were an almanac. Then I could change you once a year."

FAMOUS DIAMONDS.

The Stories of the Beau Sancy and the Kohinoor.

The famous Beau Sancy diamond was lost by Charles the Bold on the battlefield of Granson, March 3, 1476. A Swiss soldier sold it for a florin to some person unknown. A century afterward the king of Portugal pledged it to the Seigneur de Sancy of France for a loan. In 1589 the latter sent it to Henry of Navarre. Thieves killed the messenger, but Sancy exchanged the body and found his diamond again in the servant's stomach. We next hear of this gem shining on the breast of Queen Elizabeth, James II, then carried it off and sold it to Louis XIV. Robbers in 1792 looted the royal treasury, and it did not appear again until bought by the maharajah of Puttalia, who owns it now.

The Kohinoor, an English crown jewel, valued in the year 1526 "at half the daily expense of the whole world," is linked with uncommon horrors. In order to discover its hiding place half a dozen slaves were successively blinded. The head of one was shaved and circled with a ring of paste, in which they poured boiling oil. Even then he would not tell. Other historic stones, the Regent, the Piggott, the Orloff, the Empress Eugenie, the Pasha, recall adventures similarly gruesome, and so in lesser degree could many a one or two karat stone worn today were its narrative recorded.

The romance of diamonds grips one the moment he lands in South Africa. The first notable pointed out to me at Johannesburg several years ago was a big man with a black mustache, from whose shirt bosom radiated a twenty karat gem. He picked it up in Kimberly, fed it, concealed in hay, to a horse, ripped the animal open just over the Transvaal border and, there being no extradition treaty between Transvaal and Cape Colony, wore the stone without fear of punishment. At the same time all South Africa was commenting on the foolhardiness of a young Englishman who hid about 15,000 worth of diamonds in the barrel of his shotgun. He got aboard ship safely, and the inspectors were ready to go ashore when out of mere bravado he said to one, laughing, "Why don't you examine my gun?" The inspector, stupidly serious, took him at his word, and the man is now helping to build dykes along with others in the chain gang of Breakwater prison.—Public Opinion.

A Tramp of the Sea.

The shark known as the elephant, lone and basking shark roams nearly all temperate seas. Its mouth is comparatively small and bears six or seven rows of very small teeth, perhaps 200 in a row. The gill openings are enormous, the gill rakers long, close together and slender, recalling whalebone; hence the name whale shark. The skin is rough, covered with short spines. Where these monsters live in winter is not known, but doubtless they roam the temperate and semitropical seas. In summer they are gregarious and are seen in schools lying on the surface seemingly asleep. They reach the New England coast in June and July, the Hebrides and the Frith of Clyde in June and leave in July. On the Pacific coast they are found off Monterey bay in July, large schools being seen on the surface, when they can readily be approached.—Metropolitan Magazine.

BAD! BAD!! BAD!!!

Bad blood comes from bad digestion—bad stomach, bad liver, bad kidneys—attended with indigestion, coated tongue, bad taste, bad humors, bad appetite and kindred symptoms. Bad as these all are, and serious as are the diseases to which they lead, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes to the relief and cure of all these by regulating and invigorating STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS, and putting all these organs in good order. Don't let a selfish medicine seller cheat you out of your health by giving you a substitute. He's only looking out for a larger profit, not for your good. Slum him. Honest, unselfish dealers recommend the "Golden Medical Discovery."

"That your remedies are not for the few, but for the many is evident, for I personally know of many scores of persons in this city who have been restored to health and vigor by your medicines," thus writes Henry Landseer, Esq., Alderman in 17th Ward, Buffalo, N. Y., of 124 Jefferson Street. "I know that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is valuable in cases of derangement of the liver, having taken the medicine some two years ago when I had a bad attack of liver trouble, and I never used a medicine before that did me so much good. I had known Dr. Pierce for twenty years, and he is a physician and man of sterling qualities. It is possessed of extraordinary skill, and has in his Sanitarium a corps of specialists who are chosen because of their manual knowledge and professional skill."

If suffering from any obstinate, lingering ailment, write to Dr. Pierce and get, free of charge, sound medical advice. He has the counsel and assistance of a large staff of expert specialists.

A Heart to Heart Talk.

THERE is nothing like a heart to heart talk with your fellow beings. It is all right to sit in the editorial chair and preach, but it is far better to come down off your perch (with pardon for the slang) and have a heart to heart talk with your readers. There is more of a personal note in a heart to heart talk. You can discourse on subjects of vital interest at close range. Subjects of vital interest are those which will appeal to every human being. All other subjects are unessential, though they may interest a few.

But let us get away from this discussion and to the heart of our talk. Matrimony is a subject that will appeal to us all. If we have not embraced it, we are contemplating or observing it. The success of a matrimonial venture depends upon the suitability of the parties to it. Perhaps one of the most important questions which should be discussed, and often is discussed, is whether or not worldly men make better husbands than those who have lived in some sweet seclusion.

Parents and friends oftentimes deplore the fact that a girl is about to marry a man of the world. Tales of gay life he has led in the club have leaked out. His affairs of the heart have been advertised and he has altogether a reputation blase. Such a man will ten times out of eleven make a good husband. When he marries he does so with his eyes wide open. He has seen the world with all its gaudy charms. He has learned that the life he once led does not pay. He has seen hundreds of women, and when he selects a girl for his wife and plans to lead a home life, the girl of his choice may well be flattered, and can be surer of his constancy than the girl who marries his opposite.

The man who has lived in sweet seclusion and then marries the first woman who appeals to him must have a very strong character, else when temptation comes he will sow his wild oats then and is apt to forget the little wife and ties at home. If temptation does not find him out, if it never happens to cross his path, he may not stray, but if the temptation does come the wife of the man of the world can depend more upon her husband than could the wife of the other.

With a woman it is different. The less she knows of the world, the better for her own happiness. The woman who knows the world will be suspicious, and suspicion is the foundation of all unhappiness. The successful marriage is that of the man of the world and the girl who can trust and believe in him. The ideal marriage is that of the man and woman who begin to see life as it is only after they are married and who are gradually learning the world's ways together. This idealism, however, might not work and seldom exists.

The Effects of the Russo-Japanese War.

THE question naturally arises what will be the effects of the Russo-Japanese War on Russia, now that she has suffered such a renewed defeat. The question is intelligently dealt with in part as follows by Jaakoff Prelooker in a book recently issued under the title "Russia, what she was and what she is."

"I believe that the days of Czarism are numbered, that the Russo-Japanese war, whatever its final issues, is driving the last nails into the coffin of Muscovite despotism. Russia has been for a long time to all practical intents and purposes a financial bankrupt. The Russo-Japanese war cannot but intensify this insolvency, in fact, it has already brought about numerous bankruptcies of well-established and leading firms all over the empire, has paralyzed everywhere trade and commerce, and added millions of unemployed to the millions already vainly seeking work even for starvation wages; and the effects of the war will be felt even more acutely long after its termination.

"But if, on the one hand, the war means the financial ruin of the Russian people, on the other hand, it means still more the ruin of the prestige and artifices by which the Czarism has hitherto managed to keep its hold upon the nation. The giant who was able during centuries to crush his own ignorant and benighted people at home showed his helplessness and his feet of clay the moment he came in contact with an Asiatic people, who had learned the ways of Western Europe, and were called to become free citizens, and to participate in the management of their own affairs. From the Yalu and Liao-Yang it was not the Russian nation who took to flight before the onslaught of the Japanese, but only Russian Autocracy and Bureaucracy, moving and acting by a foul and obsolete State machinery. The battles on Manchurian soil were in reality fought between Tokyo and St. Petersburg, and their issue so far was decided many years ago, ever since the Mikado entered upon an era of internal regeneration, progress and liberty, whilst Czar after Czar tightened their yoke upon Russia, and forced ignorance and darkness upon the people, until Russians learned literally to hate and curse their country, to be ashamed of their very name, the best patriots praying to heaven for the blessing of seeing Russian arms defeated by the foreign foe.

"As to the revolutionary movement, the outbreak of hostilities in February last was a signal for its increased activity, which is more and more becoming intensified in all directions. The revolutionary movement has thus already contributed its share to the collapse of Czarism before a foreign foe, and in a greater degree than is generally realized.

"It is therefore quite evident that the Japanese bombs have not only shaken and scattered the Russian positions at the seat of war in far-away Manchuria, but that they are destined to shake and scatter the strongholds of Czarism at home. Japanese searchlights have stretched their rays across the whole Asiatic Continent and the Urals, reaching St. Petersburg itself, the center from which darkness and ignorance spread all over Russia. After the war Russia cannot remain the same that she was before it."

Townpeople in Trouble.

Many people are troubled with poor eyesight and many more suffer with headaches due to eye-weakness. If sufferers could submit their cases to a reliable optician instant relief would be afforded. The largest firm of manufacturing opticians in California has adopted a policy which permits the people of this locality to obtain the relief they need. An expert optician from the Chinn-Beretta Optical Company visits this locality every six weeks and his advent is always announced in this paper. Eye sufferers should watch for his coming and consult him when he arrives. He makes his headquarters at L. S. Simmons' drug store. Every one who seeks the services of an expert is thus enabled to obtain them without going to the expense of a trip to the city. This should appeal to all who have eye-troubles or who are using glasses at present which are unsatisfactory. The Chinn-Beretta Optical Company are the largest manufacturers of eye-glasses and spectacle lenses on the Pacific Coast, having stores and factories at San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and Stockton, and guarantee all their work. The prices asked are said to be the lowest, as the firm sells direct to its customers at manufacturer's prices. L. S. Simmons, local agent.

Personals.

The grandchildren of Mrs. M. Pohley will pay her a visit during the illness of their mother, Mrs. B. C. Pohley, who is being treated at the German Hospital, San Francisco.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Britishers Do Not Flatter.

A Boston lady who had been received with much favor by the Folklore society in London rather questioned the sincerity of her warm reception and said she supposed, like the French people, the English flatter. "Not at all," was the protest of a London friend. "You need not consider it possible for an English person to flatter." And then she gave an instance. Some one looking at a painting said to the artist whose picture it was, "It isn't so bad, you know." "Now don't be fulsome," was the reply.—Boston Herald.

Her Money's Worth.

During her sojourn at a hotel a lady broke an article belonging to a toilet china set. On leaving the house she was charged with the entire set. As remonstrance was unavailing, she paid the bill and, pleading the excuse of having forgotten something, returned to the room and broke each and every article of the set for which she had paid. And some people say women are not clever.

An Inquisitive Miss.

Her nurse had fallen asleep, and a four-year-old girl toddled to the pulpit steps in a church and temporarily stopped the sermon by asking the clergyman: "Please, man, why do you get up there? Why don't you come down?" When a church warden gently led her back to her seat amid the tittering of the congregation she repeated her question, adding, "Can he see better?"

Sudden Death

James O'Connor died very suddenly last Thursday evening on the Eph Cutter ranch from the effects of lead poisoning. The deceased was the husband of Miss Bertha Manuel, formerly of this place, and had been ailing for some time from lead poisoning contracted while working as a plumber in San Francisco. Accompanied by his wife he came to the valley a short time ago for a brief sojourn on the Cutter ranch in the hopes of benefiting his health. His condition suddenly became alarming and on Thursday three physicians were summoned to his bedside—Dr. Thomson and Jesse and a doctor from San Francisco. Their efforts to save the patient's life, however, were unavailing and he passed away.

The deceased was a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, and was aged 29 years.

The remains will be shipped to San Francisco this morning.

NEARLY KILLED

BY VICIOUS HORSE

Dr. T. Nufer Kicked in the Head and Skull Fractured Sunday.

Dr. Tony Nufer, the well-known veterinary surgeon, was nearly killed by a vicious horse at the Ed Johanssen ranch on Sunday. He came over from Petaluma in the morning and in the afternoon went out to Johanssen's to doctor one of the horses on the place. While treating the animal's foot, another horse came up behind and began kicking. Before Nufer could get out of the way he was dealt a terrible blow on the head by the vicious animal's hoofs. He was rendered unconscious and when taken to the house and physicians had been summoned it was discovered that his skull was badly fractured. The skull was trepanned and everything possible done for the injured man but he has been lying in a very critical condition all week. His brother, who resides in Oakland, was sent for and is with the injured man.

The Sonoma Valley Union High School.

Owing to the fact that a four year course is now necessary for graduation from a High School, the closing of the Sonoma Valley Union High School for the summer vacation was very quiet. All interested in the High School have missed the pleasant evening's entertainment and the congratulating of the successful students.

This year the congratulations are of a different order and mean much more to the general public and particularly the tax-payers. Another year's work as successful as the work of the year just closed will find our High School on the accredited list of the State University. This has been made possible by the application of the pupils to their studies as well as the painstaking interest of the teachers.

Many substantial improvements have been made in the High School building during the past year—the rooms have been papered and painted in a neat and attractive manner, the city water has been piped into the building, which beside affording better protection against fire, made it possible to put the chemistry room in its splendid condition. This room is acknowledged by experts to be one of the most convenient and best equipped laboratories for chemistry work in any High School in the State.

During the summer vacation a laboratory for the Physics class will be prepared, and this with the renovation of the Library and the preparing of an office room for the principal will make our High School one of the finest buildings (for the population and size of the school) of any in California.

The following items taken from Prof. Montgomery's report for the school year ending June 30, 1905, may be of interest:

Whole number of days attendance, 5851 1/2; whole number of days absence, 303 1/2; whole number of days tardiness, 34; average number belonging, 33; average daily attendance, 31; number of boys on register at close of school, 13; number of girls on register at close of school, 17, Total, 30. Enrollment of pupils by years: First year work, boys 7, girls 2, total 9; second year work, boys 4, girls 10, total 14; third year work, boys 5, girls 8, total 13.

Ran Down by a Team

Miss Rosella Graham, daughter of A. D. Graham of El Verano, was run down by a team of horses near the Marcy place on Broadway last Tuesday. Miss Graham was riding a bicycle when she met with the accident. An employee on the Fair ranch was breaking a pair of young horses and before he could control them they had run down the young girl and trampled her with their hoofs. She was taken into the Marcy home and Dr. Thomson summoned. The physician found Miss Graham in rather a critical condition, her body being badly lacerated and contused. She is still suffering from the effects of the injuries, which fortunately will not prove fatal.

Mrs. Williams and her daughter Mrs. Head of Alameda, who rented the Steplen Urkoff cottage for the summer, met with quite a serious accident last week. Their horse shied, upsetting the rig and threw the occupants out, breaking the old lady's collar-bone and badly bruising Mrs. Head. It was first thought that she was seriously injured, but she was able to return home last Tuesday with her aged mother, who is 84 years of age. Dr. Jesse from Santa Rosa attended them.

DANCED WITH OLD SCHOOL MATES

Alumni Reunion Saturday Night Well Attended and a Decided Success.

The Alumni of the Sonoma Valley Union High School held their annual reunion at Union Hall on the evening of last Saturday, and as the reunion took the form of a dancing party old school-mates danced together and welcomed old chums, and altogether had a jolly time. It was the graduate students' night. Their guests also enjoyed the evening's festivities. In all about 150 participated in the dancing.

The hall was festooned with the alumni colors—gold and white. Daintily gown'd girls flitting by in the maze of the dance made a very pretty picture and every participant enjoyed the evening immensely. At about eleven o'clock delicious refreshments were served and at midnight old graduates and friends said their good-byes and the reunion of 1905 came to a close.

Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade met Wednesday but the attendance was very small. President Duhning presided and reported that the views of the valley by the photographer cost $43.50. The views will be placed in an album and sent by the County Board of Trade to the Portland Fair. The photographer's bill was ordered paid. The membership roll was read and many new signers appeared thereon. The matter of issuing a descriptive and illustrative pamphlet was discussed. It was decided to have the printing committee prepare the matter and get prices on the printing of the booklets, which are to be submitted to the Board of Directors.

The transportation committee is trying to get quicker railroad facilities from the California Northwestern.

Death of Dr. McTaggart.

Dr. M. F. McTaggart, formerly of this place, died of heart disease at his late home in Reno, Nevada, after a long illness, Monday. Dr. McTaggart had lately returned to his home from St. Helena Sanitarium, where he underwent treatment. He felt better upon his return, but the high altitude of Reno renewed his suffering and he gradually grew worse until death came to his relief.

Dr. McTaggart was a native of England, where he was born 65 years ago and for many years he practiced medicine in Sonoma, where he was very popular. He leaves to mourn him a widow and four children: Mrs. Jerome Clark of Denver, Miss Geneva, Oliver and Garnett McTaggart of Reno.

RACE MEET

A BIG SUCCESS

Sonoma Driving Club Races Attended by Immense Crowd.

The race meet given by the Sonoma Driving Club here on May 30th was a big success. Fully four hundred people were at the track and the gate receipts were large. The program was a good one and all the local sports and some from abroad had money up on the favorites.

The day was a beautiful one and the track in excellent condition for the occasion.

The first race was won by Fannie Parnell, owned by A. Marcy; the second by Counterfeit, owned by J. Watt. The third race was called off. In the fourth race, half mile, El Morro, owned by G. S. Maston, captured the purse. El Morro then ran a three-quarter-mile dash with Coney Island, owned by Anderson, and Lou Rey owned by McGovern. El Morro was again the winner. In the fifth race, 2:40 class, Babe, owned by Jas. F. Ryan won out, Poulson's McKinley finished second and Maston's Our King third.

The sixth race was won by Arthur F., owned by J. F. Ryan, Schlottler's Dynamite, finishing second.

The success of the big meet was largely due to the untiring efforts of Walter Murphy and to the Driving Club in general. The Club promises another good program for the day of the 4th of July.

Water Requirement and University Farm.

There is some grave apprehension among the citizens of Alameda and Contra Costa Counties that the State University Farm will not be located in their precincts owing to the inability to meet the water requirements for the purpose of irrigation. One of the provisions of the act authorizing the purchase of the land is "that no site or tract shall be chosen, one-half of which is not susceptible of irrigation, and for the irrigation of which some system is not already provided, or for which a water right is not purchased or procured at the time the land is selected." The Oakland Enquirer says:

"While the commission has not as yet made any announcement as to the intentions in the matter of selecting a site, it is known that the members of the commission have in talking with the Alameda people, cited the water provision of the act which has come to their notice since their official visit to this county. Though the statement has not been made in so many words the Alameda people have been given to understand that unless the water condition can be complied with that the commission cannot give any further consideration to Alameda or Contra Costa county sites."

It is believed that Sonoma Valley can fill the bill, on the water requirement and that when the Commission visits here they will look favorably upon the site we have to offer.
